OUR TOWN

Written by Thornton Wilder | Directed by Roxane Ashe
June 4 - 26, 2010

Set in Grover's Corner, New Hampshire, this American classic explores all that matters most in our lives, and manages to do so with truth and grace. Our Town is a compelling look at the ordinary lives of the Gibbs and Webb families that reminds us of the beauty of small moments, the poignancy of everyday life, and the urgency of now. In a world filled with crisis and terror, this Pulitzer Prize-winning play gives us an opportunity to focus on community, on goodness, on family, and on love. "One of the sagest, warmest and most deeply human scripts to have come out of our theatre." —NY Post

URINETOWN, THE MUSICAL

Written by Mark Hollman and Greg Kotis | Directed by Martin Rojas-Dietrich
July 23 - August 21, 2010

If you think that occasionally we are taking ourselves too seriously, Urine Good Company! This irreverent comedy pokes fun at American musical theatre, our cultural institutions, corporate America, and even petty small town politics. Winner of several Tony Awards, including Best Musical, and Best Original Score, Urinetown, the Musical is an outrageous spoof, and a hilarious tale of love, greed, corruption, and revolution in a time of drought, when even 'restroom activities' are controlled by the megacorporation, Urine Good Company. Fun for the whole family. "Ya gotta go!" "Exuberant and cheeky musical...the show is so intelligently calibrated in its audacity that it provokes enthusiasm even in a critic...fresh." —New York Times

RABBIT HOLE

Written by David Lindsay-Abaire | Directed by Paul Anable
September 17 - October 9, 2010

This beautifully wrought drama, winner of the Pulitzer Prize in 2007, tells the story of the Corbett family's search for comfort in a world turned upside-down. A quietly moving play that's also witty and warm, the story explores the reconnection of relationships and the possibilities of hope after great tragedy. The play ultimately follows Becca and Howie Corbett's struggle back to the light of day, with Lindsay-Abaire showing the conflict, the anguish and the healing effects of humor with what the New York Times called, "meticulously mapped empathy." Note: contains adult themes. "David Lindsay-Abaire has crafted a drama that's not just a departure but a revelation - an intensely emotional examination of grief, laced with wit, insightfulness, compassion and searing honesty." —Variety

DIRECTOR'S NOTES

Charlie and the Chocolate Factory was the first book I ever read by myself. My mother was a voracious reader. Some of my earliest memories are of my mom, sitting on the edge of my bed at night, reading Gullivers Travels to me. As I grew up, many nights were spent under the covers with a flashlight reading anything and everything – Hardy Boys, Matt Christopher sports books like: Catcher With A Glass Arm, Too Hot to Handle, Touchdown For Tommy and, finally a book that would thrust me into a new world, Catcher In The Rye. Roald Dahl's Charlie still remains one of my favorites. 16 years ago Charlie and the Chocolate Factory was the very first C.T.C. play. This production brings our program full circle and launches our next 15 years.

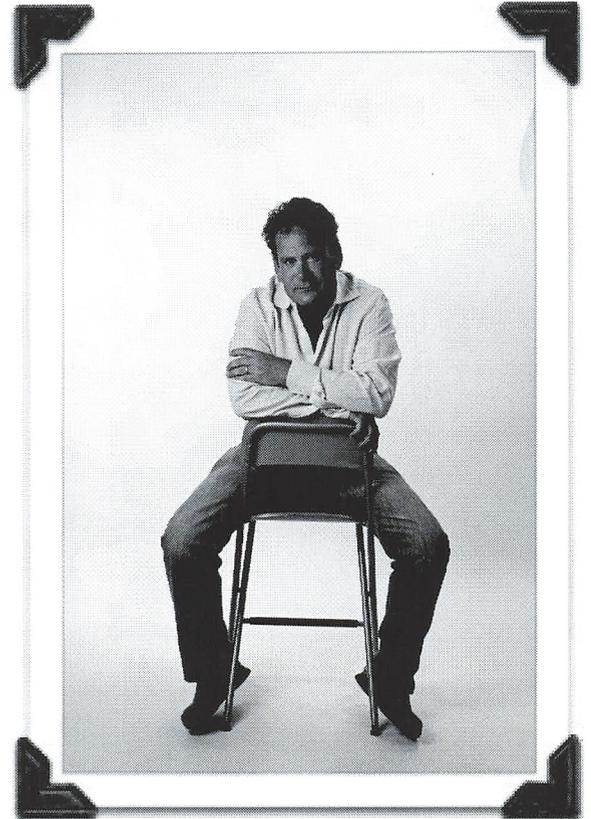

Sometimes in the life of every artist a wall shows up that feels like it will take dynamite to break through. Willy Wonka, a true visionary and chocolate genius, has hit his. In Charlie Bucket, he finds a big stick of dynamite that promises a new vision for his broken factory. For me, following the close of Beauty and the Beast in March, my 7th show in 12 months, the wall seemed as big as the Great Wall of China. How lucky am I to have the greatest team of artists to lift me up and be my Charlie. It is with great humility and huge pride that I thank them all for leading the way this year. Amy, Kimberley, Wendy, Beau, Sue J., Alice, Rich, Evan, Bob, Richard, Mitchell, Karin, Pam, Lino, Courtnee, the Kissicks, Eileen, Susan G., Ginger, Greet, Heather and Lené, you are all my life blood.

This show is dedicated to the newest member of our theatre and the Thorsett family. Bub Wonka can't wait to meet you.

Love always, Michael "Bub"

ABOUT THE CTC AT COASTAL REP

Coastal Theatre Conservatory (CTC) was founded in 1994 by Michael Lederman, a professional actor with over 30 years of experience. In 2009, CTC merged with Coastal Rep as a first step towards crafting an educational branch of Coastal Repertory Theatre (CRT). Classes taught in Half Moon Bay, California have proven to provide actors from 5 to 25 with a safe environment to explore the world of theater. Improved communication skills, increased confidence, better reading comprehension and love for the art of theater are just some of the lessons learned by the students. Classes are taught by qualified professionals in all aspects of theater and are led by Mr. Lederman. For information on classes, please visit www.ctchmb.com or sign the mailing list in the lobby.

THE DIRECTOR THANKS

Thank you to the amazing team of artist that held me up and made me smile. Thanks to all the parents that went above and beyond...again. Thanks to all the local businesses that support our program with their advertising dollars. Thanks to the Board of Directors of Coastal Repertory Theatre for believing in the difference youth theatre makes in our community. Thanks to my amazing students who year after year amaze me with their talent and hard work. Thanks to all my personal friends who forgive me for my imperfections. Thanks to my Mother who taught me to never quit and inspired my love affair with the theatre. Thanks to my Father who is the definition of what the words "work ethic" mean.

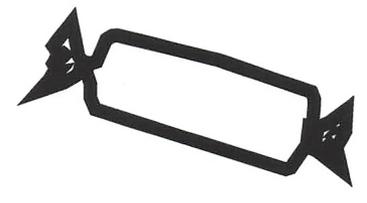

Finally, thanks to my partner, the best part of it all...Roxane

Always, Michael "Bub"
